

1989 ABSOLUT

Recently, "Models for Boston" presented a benefit for the homeless at Citi Nightclub, which was hosted by the importers of Absolut Vodka and which featured a fabulous fashion show with the designs of several local designers and the 1989-90 Absolut Fashions. Among these attending were (pictured above) artist Noel Suarez, owner of "D'Noel Art Deco Gallery" in the south end, (see ad), who donated several works of art for the auction that was held, including the original art for the poster for the occasion, which was purchased by Michel Roux, President and Chief Executive Officer of Carillon Importers, (who import Absolut), for $22,000, and Jo Somers, owner of Jo Copley Seven Model Agency. A follow-up benefit for the homeless, once again chaired by model Sandra Blevins, is scheduled to be held sometime at the end of March 1990 at the D'Noel Art Deco Gallery, which will feature the photographs of the homeless, by Boston photographer Ron Gurule. Incidentally, commemorative posters and T-shirts of this recent event, as well as 1990 calendars, are still available... and it is for a most worthy cause... They are available at the D'Noel Gallery.
